Alicom - Innovation and reliability for your messaging needs.

Alicom Systems has been providing Internet based messaging services and solutions for over twenty years. We are an acknowledged leader in our field.

Send fax messages from your PC

When you need to send a fax, save time by sending it directly from your PC. Use MS Exchange, MS Outlook, Lotus Notes or any Internet enabled mail package and your existing Internet connection.

Sending a fax is as simple as sending an email, no need to go near a fax machine – in fact you don't even need one!

Easy to use

Our Email2Fax service requires no investment or new software. Once you have registered your email addresses, you can immediately make use of the service and start saving money with our competitive fax rates.

Simply address your message to Alicom's special email address and your email will be delivered as a fax – completely automatically. Store regularly used fax numbers in your email address books for easy and quick selection. Text messages can be typed into the body of an email.

Alternatively, if you would like to send Windows* documents as faxes simply attach the document as you would an email attachment such as Word or PDF. Your attachment is converted to fax. If you wish you can include a short message in the email body and, of course, you can send multiple attachments.

* For a list of currently supported file types please check our website.

Save time and money

Once you send your message our system does the rest – receiving your message as email and converting the text into a fax. Delivery is automated including re-trying of busy numbers.

Alicom's Email2Fax is a service you can rely on, available 24 hours every day of the year.

Keeping you informed

In addition to individual fax message delivery notifications, you can receive summary reports to email or fax addresses.

Real time service reports - you can check message status over the web at www.alicomsystems.com

Scheduled reports - are available daily and weekly which show the status of your messages, whether delivered, re-trying or cancelled.

Receive fax messages too

Alicom offers a complete outsourced fax solution. With Fax2Email you can receive fax messages in your email inbox. We allocate an international fax number for you to give to your correspondents. Any faxes received on this number will be forwarded to your email address.
